"Now, in its second generation, restorative justice is not a wild dream: it is a reality, and I for one am energized by the new and younger voices that are emerging. Much appreciation to Theo Gavrielides, himself a representative of this new generation, for leading the way through this Handbook."

Professor Howard Zehr, Centre for Justice & Peacebuilding, Eastern Mennonite University, USA.

Routledge International Handbook of Restorative Justice

Edited by Theo Gavrielides

This handbook provides scholars, students, practitioners and policymakers from around the world with a comprehensive and authoritative review of current research in restorative justice. Bringing together contributors from across a range of disciplines and legal traditions, this edited collection provides a concise, up-to-date and critical review of existing theory and practice. Authors identify key developments, theoretical arguments and new empirical evidence, evaluating their merits and demerits, before turning the reader's attention to further concerns informing and improving the future of restorative justice.

"Many inspiring restorative justice leaders in the past have mobilized convening power toward projects of listening, but none more widely nor in more diverse ways than Theo Gavrielides in recent years."

Professor John Braithwaite, Founder of RegNet at the Australian National University.

"In its breadth and depth, this impressive collection represents a new chapter in one of the most remarkable stories in criminal justice of the past century".

Professor Shadd Maruna, author of Making Good: How Ex-Convicts Reform and Rebuild Their Lives.

"A pathway forward is found through the wisdom of the scholars here, all of whom are committed to restorative justice and a more resilient future".

Professor Maya Soetoro, University of Hawaii Manoa, USA.
